THE allopathic medical societies throughout the country are agitated by the question whether homocopaths shall be admitted to the International Congress, to be heid in Washington in 1887. The first plan was to let in all legal practitioners, but a committee on organization not only reversed this, but excluded from the Presidencies of the various sections all allowable known to fayor consultions. from the Presidencies of the various sec-tions all allopaths known to favor consul-nations with homeopaths. That action has made an extensive row; resignations are numerous, regretful letters are re-ceived from European asvants, and a set-tlement of the difficulty seems impossi-ble, judging by the vielence of the senti-ments.—[New York Sun.

A CONSIDERABLE revolt exists among the Republicant of Pennsylvania against Mathew S. Quay, their nominee for State Treasurer. In fact, the revolt has become so wide-spread, that the Democrats are feeling quite confident of electing their nominee for that office, at the approaching election, notwihistanding the overwhelming majority Bisine received in that State last November. Bisine carried the State last fall by a majority of $1,010, and from this it will be seen that the kickers against Quay must be rather umerous to give the Democrate even the shadow of a hope of carrying the State this fall. Some years ago a bill appropriating $4,000,000 was introduced in the Legislature of that State to pay the losses caused by the riots at Pittsburg in 1877. On the eve of its passage the discovery was made that several members had been bribed by parties interested in the bill. Prosecutions were began against some of these members, and seeling conviction was mate that several members had been bribed by parties interested in the bill. Prosecutions were began against some of these members, and seeing conviction staring them in the face, four of them pleuded guilty to the charge, and one was tried and convicted. In face of all this the Pardon Board, a little later remitted the severest portion of sentence against the convicted members. Quay was a member of this Pardon Board, and the opposition to him in his party, arises from this fact. His views as Indicated by his official action in that case, have led members of his party to think that he considered bribery no crime at all, or, at least not deserving of severe purlahment. As an evidence of the opposition to hin, read the following taken from a Republican paper of that State:
